HUNTINGDON, PA.

SOLDIERS' HEIRS, ATTENTION!

The act of Congress approved March 2, 1867, gives to Heirs of Soldiers who died prisoners of war, for the time the soldier was so held a prisoner, at the rate of twenty-five cents per day, to be paid in the following order: 1st. To the widow, if unmarried; 2d. To the children; 3d. To the parents, to both jointly if they are living, if either is dead, to the survivor; 4th. To the brothers and sisters.

COMMUTATION FOR RATIONS,

The act of February 28, 1867, provides for the refunding of the $300 Commutation Money, where the same person was again drafted, and was required to enter the service or furnish a substitute.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS.

The act of March 2, 1867, also makes provisions for the payment of the

$100 ADDITIONAL BOUNTY

to such soldiers as have accidentally lost their discharges

All persons having any claims under any of the above mentioned Acts, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, can have them promptly collected, by addressing the undersigned. Information and advice cheerfully given to soldiers or their friends, free of charge.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

AND

Hoofland's German Tonic.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alchoholic admixture, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a more matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc, is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skilfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—

AND

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, 'never feel well.' They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:

Philadelphia, March 18, 1867.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system.
Yours, truly,

GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect,

JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.

FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.

Yours truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

A VERIFIED JOURNEY OF LIFE.

When a man travels the journey of life
He gets a few rubs of the bustle and strife;
And if he's in want of a guide book, perchance
I can give him a sketch of the route at a glance

Mammy's lay—coral and play—
Fussery, nussery, cry, cry;
Heaps of toys—racket and noise—
Hummery, drummery, fie, fie!
Off to school—dull as a mule—
Fag away, drag away, slow, slow;
Early love—coo like a dove—
Sighery, fiery, glow, glow;
Choose a career—prospects queer—

When a man travels the journey of life,
He gets a few rubs in the bustle and strife,
Gets all his life,
A few hard rubs in the bustle and strife.

WANTED AT THE CROSS ROADS.

I was in a hurry to reach home. No wonder, for it was the wildest night I had ever known in all my life, and the country road over which I took my way was as bad and dark as country roads in general. Consequently I was walking at a great rate, with the collar of a rough coat over my ears, when suddenly a man stood full in my path, and caught me by the arm.

"Hullo!" said he. "You're just in time, you are wanted at the Cross Roads to-night."

The voice was the voice of a ruffian. I fancied myself attacked by a highway man.

I stood quite still, and strove to show him by my manner that I was able to protect myself.

"What the deuce am I wanted at the Cross Roads for?" said I, "Unless I choose, it would be hard to get me there."

But, instead of producing a pistol and demanding my money or my life, the man answered in an altered tone.

"Beg pardon! I made a mistake. I thought it was my brother, and wanted to frighten him."

"Bad night, sir."

"Very!" said I.

"You don't know the time?" he asked.

"It was seven when I left the train at ——." I said.

"Thank ye," said the man. "Good night!"

If his object had been robbery, probably he had decided, from my rough mufflers, that I was too poor a man to be worth the trouble.

But after all, I said, probably he spoke the truth. A man may have such a voice without being a highway man, no doubt.

So I went on homeward, and soon found myself under shelter, and partaking of a warm and savory meal.

My mother was there and my brother Ben. Ben was a great strapping fellow, who could beat any other boy of his age for miles around, if it came to wrestling or boxing, and as good-humored a boy as ever lived; a boy always to his mother, and I thought he had exercised his right to vote already in one Presidential election.

When supper was over and we had chatted for an hour, we went up stairs together. We share one room.

The moment Ben's head touched the pillow he always went to sleep.—That night I followed his example.

But I did not sleep long without a dream—a dream in which I felt a rough grip on my arm and was roused by a crying in my ear.

"Wake up! you're wanted at the Cross Roads—."

It was so real, so palpable, that when I started broad awake I actually believed that some one was in the room—the man who had met me on the road, perhaps, and who intended robbery or violence. But when I had lit my lamp the room was empty, except myself and Ben lying snoring on his pillow.

I went to the door; it was locked. I went to the window; the rush of rain against the panes was all I heard. I even went across the passage to my mother's room. She was awake. There had been no unusual sound she was sure.

Only a dream, born of my meeting with the strange man upon the road, I felt sure had awakened me. I went to bed and fell asleep again. Again I was awakened by the same words—this time shrieked in my ear by an unearthly voice.

"Wake up! wake up! you are wanted at the Cross Roads."

I was on my feet once more, and caught Ben's hand as he came to my bed.

"Nothing," I replied. "Did you hear a voice?"

"Yours," said Ben, yelling, "wake up." You fairly frightened me."

"Ben," said I, "wait until I light the lamp. I heard another voice.—There must be same one in the house or outside."

So we lit the lamp, and searched, but in vain.

"Nightmare," said Ben, when I told him my story.

"Ben," said I, "what is there at the Cross Roads?"

"A house," said Ben. He had lived in the neighborhood a long time, and I but a short while.

"One little house, besides two oak trees and a fence. An old man lives there, a rich old fellow, and a bit of a miser they say. His grand-daughter keeps house for him."

"Ben," said I, "that fellow may have meant harm to them. I may be wanted at the Cross Roads."

"Brother," said Ben, go to sleep.—You had a nightmare"—and Ben plunged in between the blankets and was soon snoring again.

I also in ten minutes was sleeping soundly as before, but the awakening quickly came again.

I opened my eyes to see a girl standing at the foot of the bed. A girl in white robes with golden hair about her shoulders, who wrung her hands and cried, "Oh, wake up! you are wanted at the Cross Roads."

This time I started out of bed, bathed in a cold prespiration. I trembled like a leaf, and had no doubt that I had received a supernatural warning.

"Ben," I cried. "Ben, for the third time I have been told I am wanted at the Cross Roads, and I am going."

And I began to dress myself as speedily as possible, listening meanwhile to the storm raging madder and wilder than at any other period since its commencement.

Ben remonstrated with me in vain. At last he also begun to huddle on his clothes.

"If you have gone mad, I must go with you," he said.

"But fancy another man going in a storm like this to the Cross Roads, because a nightmare advises him to do so, and what would you think of him?"

I said nothing. All I could have answered would have been:

"I am impelled to go; I must go; I dare not refuse, whatever may be thought of me."

In ten minutes we were splashing through mud and rain along the road. It was perfectly dark; now and then a blazing red star in the distance told us that a lamp was gleaming through the rain in some cottage window, but otherwise would not have been conscious of our proximity to any habitation whatever. At last nearing the spot where the road from S—— crosses the road from P——, we were, indeed, in as solitary a place as could well be imagined.

The house, which abutted on the very angle of the roads called, in familiar parlance the Cross Roads, was the only one for some distance in either direction, and certainly on such a night we were not likely to meet many travelers.

All was silent as the grave. We stood quite still. In a moment Ben broke out in one of his wildest laughs.

"Well," he said, "how now? Will you go home and have another nightmare?"

But hardly had the words escaped his lips, when a shriek broke out on the air, and a woman's voice plainly coming from the interior of the cottage cried,

"Help! help! help!"

"Ben," said I, "we are wanted at the Cross Roads," and then understanding each other, without more words, we made our way to a window through which a light shone. A muslin curtain draped the panes, but through it we saw an awful sight.

An old man lay upon the floor, and over him a ruffian, clutching his throat, and holding a pistol to his ear, while another man grasped a shrieking girl by the arm—a girl in a floating night dress—with such long golden hair as belonged to the woman of my vision.

Not a moment was to be wasted.

Ben flung his weight against the slender lattice and crushed it in, and we had grappled with the ruffians before they knew whence the attack came; or how many foes were upon them.

I do not intend to describe the struggle, indeed I could not if I would. But we were strong men, and inspired by the cries of the helpless girl, soon had one of the villians bound, and the other lying prostrate on the floor.

Then Ben started for assistance, and before morning both were in jail, Ben admitting as we shook each other by the hand, that we were "wanted at Cross Roads."

The old man was not a miser, but he had saved some few thousands for his old age, and living more plainly than he need have done, had given rise to the rumor, and so brought the burglars to the Cross Roads in the hope of booty.

The girl, a beautiful creature of seventeen, was his grand-daughter, and as no story is acceptable to the lady readers without a flavor of romance, I will tell them that she became in after years, not my wife, but the wife of my darling brother, Ben.

TEMPER.—Of all qualities, a sweet temper is perhaps the least cultivated in the lower ranks of life. The peculiar disposition is not watched; care is not taken to distinguish between the passionate child, the sulky, the obstinate, and the timid. The children of the poor are allowed a latitude of speech unknown among the higher orders; and they are free from the salutary restraint imposed by what is termed "company." When in the enjoyment of full health and strength, the ungoverned temper of the poor is one of their most striking faults; while their resignation under affliction, whether mental or bodily, is the point, of all others, in which the rich might with advantage study to imitate them.

GOODNESS AND GENIUS.—Genius and goodness are inseparably connected in mental origin. Genius is essentially a moral—nay, a religious power. The difference between the genius and talent is perhaps included in the necessary conscientiousness of the former. Talent may be conscientious—genius must be so. Nobility of purpose, the truest and most patient sympathies, must combine in a work that is to penetrate, elevate, and subdue the hearts of mankind. If we rise from a book with no sacred and solemn emotions, no deep sense of human relationship and sympathy, we have not been in communion with genius.

Changes.

Great changes in anything cause universal remark. We have had changes in the political field; changes caused by great convulsions in nature as was recently experienced in South America, in which thirty-two thousand living beings perished in a single hour, and we have now another change, that of the weather. Each change as it occured, has been the subject of comment, and while discussing the different topics with our neighbors we have been forcibly reminded of the mutability of all things earthly. One day our hearts are filled with bright hopes and unbounded joy over some cheering intelligence—the next, our sympathies are awakened on the receipt of some painful news and we are sad whilst thinking of the fate of those we cherish. Such is the condition of our pilgrimage here that we become grievously unmindful of the importance of changes. We are nurtured amidst transforming scenes, and while we live we become accustomed to them. The seasons come and go. In the spring the birds chirp and flutter; in the summer vegetation progresses, and we have the harvest; in the fall—how apt the term—the birds take their flight to warmer climes, and the saffron colored leaves let go their hold of the mother stem, and fall and perish; in the winter we look upon leafless boughs covered with the snowy mantle, and the chilling winds pierce the cheeks of earth upon which summer's zephyrs so gently played. These inevitable changes of nature, are our monitor. We, too, are changing. There is no storm which does not bring its cloud, there is no shower which does not leave its furrow; there is no summer which does not bring its pleasure; there is no winter which does not leave its sadness. We feel them all; our chequered lives are made up of changes, and now as we contemplate nature in its great change from its green and life like livery to its general cheerlessness we are reminded the most vividly of those changes in our own system. We too are passing away, like the leaves of the forest. We have our brief existence for usefulness, and then the energies of our nature relax, and we die. Soon, ah, very soon, we are forced to yield to the demands of Death—that vigilant pursuer of all—and our places in the world are assumed by others. We pass off the stage of action here; and others are the players. We who now live, may look back and recall the faces of our departed friends and imagine them again in their wonted places; but whilst we think of them thus, we are doing no more than others may do for us. How we cherish the memory of dear ones! How we love the good that others have done for us, who are now sleeping in their graves, and how we love to think of them! Are we doing anything for our fellow-man that we may have his memory to cherish us, and the blessing of our Creator to rest upon us? If we are not, should we not be up and doing, learning to love, labor and wait? We must prepare for the change, not only in this life, but for the next, and we must teach others to prepare with us.

CLING CLOSE TO THE ROCK.—A long train of cars, fourteen or fifteen, were recently passing over the Allegheny Mountains, on their way eastward.—They were crowded with passengers. As the iron horse snorted and rushed on, they began to descend, and needed no power but the invisible power of gravitation to send them down with terrific swiftness. Just as the passengers began to realize the situation, they came to a short curve cut out of the solid rock, a wall of rock lying on each side. Suddenly the steam whistle screamed as if in agony. "Put on the breaks, put on the brakes," but with no apparent slackening of the cars. Every window flew open, and every head that could be was thrust out to see what the danger was, and every one rose up in their places, fearing sudden destruction. What was the trouble?

Just as the engine began to turn in the curve the engineer saw a little girl and her baby brother playing on the track. In a moment the cars would be upon them. The shriek of the whistle startled the little girl, and every one looking over could see them. Close to the track in the upright rock was a little niche, out of which a piece of rock had been blasted. In an instant the baby was thrust into the niche, and as the cars came thundering by, the passengers holding their breath heard the clear voice of the little sister, on the other side of the cars, ring out, "Cling close to the rock, Johnny, cling close to the rock!" And the little creature snuggled in, and put his head as close to the rock as possible, while the heavy cars whirled past him. And many were the moist eyes that gazed, and a silent thanksgiving went up to heaven.—Indiana Messenger

A USEFUL AND PRACTICAL HINT.—Every man has his idea of what his prosperity should be. The majority of the favorites of fortune require abundance, the minority are contented with a moderate independence. And the same rule prevails with respect to morals and intellect. Some desire to be considered pre-eminently good, others rationally so; and others again are satisfied if their conduct places them beyond the reach of censure. It is the same with the mind. One man would wish to soar above his fellow-creatures—to dazzle all beholders by the loftiness of his flights; another would desire to be considered as above the average intellectual standard; another to be thought at least equal in capability with those by whom he is surrounded; and another would let his neighbors rate him just as high or as low as they pleased. So that prosperity in all its various phases must only be taken in degree, or according to the estimation in which it may be held. And thus it is that upon the estimate formed by the individual rests the greater portion of the responsibility of realizing what is desired and sought to be obtained.

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, Nov. 11, 1868.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

☞Secretary Seward voted for Grant, at Auburn, his home.

☞The Republicans have a majority in the New York Legislature, insuring the election of a Republican U. S. Senator.

☞The most of the returns from the counties of Pennsylvania have been received, and they show a majority for Grant and Colfax of about 28,000

XLI CONGRESS.—The N. Y. Tribune, makes the grand total of members elect of the forty-first Congress stand 143 Republicans to 85 Democrats—against 177 Republicans to 57 Democrats in the present Congress.

☞There is no longer much doubt that the electoral vote will stand as follows: For Grant and Colfax, 204; for Seymour and Blair, 90. The popular majorities will be about 450,000 for Grant and Colfax, and 164,000 for Seymour and Blair.

THE STATE.

The result in the State is a great victory for the Union Republicans. The "Democracy" did try to upset the October result—but they failed, as they ever will fail until they repudiate their leaders and—their party.

☞The politicians of all parties are fixing up a Cabinet for General Grant. How kind they want to be. Wonder if the General wont have something to say after he takes a good smoke. We'll bet he'll talk something more than horse when he takes his seat as President.

"Honor to Whom Honor is Due."

Why was it that "Old Huntingdon" gave such a handsome majority for Grant and Colfax? An honest answer must be: Union Republicans in every election district worked earnestly and faithfully.

☞Printers' ink has made fortunes for good business men—built up cities and towns—put into office many good men, and some not any better than they should be. It is the life of trade—the life of politics—use it properly and it will add to your pleasure and wealth.

TELL AND CARBON.—The votes of Tell and Carbon townships were not counted by the board of Return Judges on Friday last—they were refused on the ground that the return from those townships were not properly made out. There was no return of the names of Electors voted for with the number of votes each received. We believe the Board was unanimous in rejecting the returns offered.

☞The so called Democratic press everywhere are offering "if the Democratic party had" done so and so it would have been successful. The whole truth of the causes of the defeat of the once honorable party can be crammed into a nut-shell. Disloyal men — "Copperheads" — control the organization. Until they are thrown overboard by the masses—the loyal element of the party—the party will be defeated in every contest.

HIS "POLICY."—The "Democracy" are very anxious now, since Grant has been elected, to know what his "policy" will be. It is most too early to guess what it will be, but we will venture an opinion that it will be the "policy" of the people, right the opposite of the destructives of all parties. Grant, we think, has learned something from the mistakes of others. The people took him because they had confidence in him—he was the people's candidate and we believe he will not disappoint them.

How the President is Elected,

The electors chosen by the people of the several States are required, by the Act of 1792, to assemble at the capitals of their respective States on the first Wednesday in December, being the 2nd day of that month this year, and there to vote by ballot for President and Vice President, making lists of the ballots cast for each. These are to be transmitted, before the first Wednesday in January, to the President of the Senate at Washington. On the second Wednesday in February, that officer will open all these certificates, in the presence of the two Houses of Congress, and the votes are then counted, usually by tellers designated by each House. The persons having, respectively, the greatest number of votes, for President and Vice President, provided such numbers be majorities of the whole number of electors appointed, "shall be," says the Constitution, "President and Vice President." There are other provisions in that instrument, applicable to cases when no person is found to have a majority of the whole number of electoral votes, but we need not quote them here, the votes to be given for Grant and Colfax being largely in excess of the majority constitutionally required.

A Season of Earthquakes.

Earthquakes have been of common occurrence along the Pacific coast this year, and although there have as yet been no severe shocks hereabouts, yet nobody can venture to affirm that we shall always be free from their visits. Indeed, it is said that premonitory rumblings were manifested in some parts of this State only a few weeks ago; and slight shocks were felt during the summer in Vermont. Through dispatches received from San Francisco yesterday, we learn that the awful and unparalleled natural convulsion that plunged over 30,000 South Americans into eternity, ruined so many miles of coast line, and razed so many towns and cities, and the more recent disastrous shock at San Francisco, have not spent their force. Suppose it should be our turn next! Such a thing is possible, if not probable. We believe that if anything can induce people to forsake sin for solemn prayer, folly for sober reflection, frivolity for fidelity to religion, and rascality in general for purely moral practices widely different from those now in vogue, it would be a probability, however weak, of the sudden destruction of our cities by a convulsion of what is now sometimes called terra firma on the South American plan. In our position the probability is not much weaker than the possibility, if the predictions of the searchers of the undue actions of the earth can be taken into consideration. They affirm that some parts of New York as well as Pennsylvania is within the earthquake belt, and that we are at almost any time liable to a stroke of nature's powerful band. Who knows but what angry nature may soon inflict upon us this punishment, and that ere the year 1868 rolls round we may witness a scene of destruction here that will almost if not quite eclipse the recent awful perturbations of land and ocean in Chili and other parts of South America?—Harrisburg Telegraph Nov. 7.

"Old Huntingdon" for Peace.

We give the official vote of "Old Huntingdon" in another column. After the brilliant victory in October we could not expect our majority to be increased many votes on the 3d. But, (counting the votes of Tell and Carbon, thrown out by the return judges,) we have an increase of 91 majority over the October election. In some townships our majorities fell short, while in others they were handsomely increased. "Old Huntingdon" may be considered permanently "fixed" for all time to come—at least as long as there is a rebel spirit to oppose. The Union Republicans of every district may well feel proud of the gallant fight they made, and the brilliant victory they gained.

* The votes of Carbon and Tell were not properly returned and were thrown out by the Board of Return Judges, leaving the Republican majority 1238.

☞If we allow one voter to represent six and a half of the white population, then the borough of Huntingdon, which in October polled 566 votes, has a white population of 3579. Count the colored men and we must have a population of about 4000. When the census was taken in 1860, the population was about 2500. Allowing the same basis for the county, which polls a vote of 5971, and we have a white population in the county of 37,911—include "the rest of mankind," and the county would have a population of about 39,000. In 1860 the population was 28,100—thus showing an increase of nearly 11,000. When the census is taken in 1870, we think the population of the county will have reached 40,000.

The next number of the Globe will be the last campaign subscribers will receive unless we are requested by letter or otherwise to have the paper continued. There are very few campaign subscribers who cannot afford to pay a years subscription for a good county paper. We hope such will have an opportunity to renew their subscriptions.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

Rejoicing at the Home of Our President Elect--The Generals Speech.

The Chicago Tribune, in its Galena despatch of November 4, written at midnight, says:—

This has been the proudest evening in all the history of Galena. The city heretofore Democratic, yesterday gave a majority for her distinguished citizen, General U. S. Grant, for President of the United States. The county gives him a larger majority by 400 than it gave to Mr. Lincoln in 1866.

This magnificent result together with the triumphant election of Gen. Grant, was celebrated here by a grand torchlight procession, bonfires, illuminations, and other demonstrations of joy. The Galena Tanners, with two bands of music and a procession of citizens, numbering several thousand, marched to the residence of General Grant, in front of which a splendid display of fireworks was set up, after which three rousing cheers were given for the President elect. In response to repeated calls the General stepped out upon the piazza and addressed the multitude as follows:

Friends and fellow citizens of Galena:—I thank you for this additional mark of your kindness. Sufficient, I suppose, has now been heard of the result of the late election to show upon whom it has fallen to administer the affairs of the nation for the next four years. I suppose it is no egotism in me to say that the choice has fallen on me. The responsibilities of the position I feel, but accept them without fear, if I can have the same support which has been given to me thus far. I thank you and all others who have fought together in this contest—a contest in which you are all interested personally as much as, and perhaps more, than I am. I now take occasion to bid you good bye, as I leave here to-morrow for Washington, and shall probably see but few of you again for some years to come, although it would give me great pleasure to make an annual pilgrimage to a place where I have enjoyed myself so much as I have here during the past few months.

At the conclusion of this first speech of the President-elect, the crowd gave nine defending cheers for Gen. Grant, after which they proceeded to the residence of Hon. E B. Washburne, who has just been re elected to Congress, for his ninth term, by an overwhelming majority.

Our Vice President Elect at Harrisburg.

On Friday evening, at Harrisburg Schuyler Colfax spoke as follows of the Republican victory:—

We commend our cause to the eternal throne and rested our fate on Him who is the protector of the helpless and the friendless, and He, from His eternal throne, put our enemies to flight. (Cheers) What has been the course of the Democratic party during the past few years? What has been their policy? Three times we have met them in the canvass. In 1864 they made their platform at Chicago just as they pleased. C. L. Vallandigham was the chief author of that platform. They denounced the war as a failure and proclaimed to the American people and to the world, that Abraham Lincoln was a despot, a tyrant, a traitor, a usurper; and they dared then and there to desert the nation in its hour of sore trial. (Cries of that's so.) They dared to demand the right of Secession. They hung out the white flag of surrender, and the great people of this country struck down that flag and that platform because they dared thus to desert the cause of the nation in its very hour of triumph. (Cheers.)

In 1866 they met us again, this once proud and powerful, but autocratic and domineering, Democratic party; then they wrote their own platform, as they did in 1864, then they arrayed us as tyranical, because we did not allow Rebels to pollute the halls of our nation's capitol and make laws for the widows and children of those they had slain. Again they were defeated. The people determined that loyalty should govern what loyalty had preserved, (great cheering,) and God crowned our efforts with triumph.

Again, in 1868, they once more wrote their platform as they pleased. Again they placed in the field their chosen candidate on the platform written by Wade Hamptom. They declared the Reconstruction measures of Congress unconstitutional, revolutionary and void. We met them and won the glorious victory over which you rejoice to-day. (Applause) As often as they make such issues with us, the loyal, patriotic, noble, American people will strike them down, as they have done three times during the four years just past. (Applause.)

This is not all the significance of this victory which we have won. I can imagine, while we are here rejoicing over the glad news of victory, that there are some men in the South who, though they are rejoicing in their hearts, do not exhibit their enthusiasm. They are the tried Union men of the South, who rejoiced not in the public streets, but hung upon the outskirts of the hostile crowds, with blanched faces, to learn when they were to have protection—whether this great country would stand by them, or whether their dearest rights were to be outraged, and, amid the murmurs and scowls, and the acts of the crowd that was rebuked by the glorious news, they were assured that there should be peace in all this land, that there should be protection for every loyal man, they did go home, not shouting with joy, as you do here to-day; but these good, loyal men of the South gathered around their hearthstones, on bender knees, with their wives and daughters and sisters, to thank God that they were protected. (Applause.)

My friends, it is a noble, a magnificent, a patriotic triumph. It means, in the decisive language of our great leader, emphatically, "Let us have peace." (Tremendous applause.) It means protection to every man in our land. By this grand popular vote you have settled that principle that every man has the right to go South or North, East or West, throughout the whole length and breadth of the Union, unmolested, so long as he is devoted to our flag, and that he is to be protected by it against outrage and wrong. It means that he may sing his loyal songs wherever he may go, with none to molest or make him afraid.

The West Repudiates Repudiation.

From the New York Times.

The financial policy of the Democratic party was dictated by the supporters of Pendleton, and ratified by the Convention, with the avowed purpose of conciliating the West. It was contended that the Western States were almost a unit in favor of the taxation of bonds, the payment of the five twenties in greenbacks, and an inflation of the currency to render that step practicable. When the party made these measures leading features of its platform, the whole West was claimed for Seymour. Pendleton became one of the great guns of the campaign, everywhere expounding his nostrum and urging its profitableness to the Western people. Seymour himself, in his memorable and melancholy pilgrimage, gave special prominence to the same subject. A New Yorker, he attempted to raise a sensa*tional issue against his State*. He denounced the bondholders, advocated inflation, and did his best to justify the scheme of spoliation propounded by his party. Down to the last, he evidently cherished the opinion that the West separated itself from other parts of the Union on financial questions, and was prepared to sanction robbery and repudiation as a short and easy mode of lightening its burden.

Tuesday's work has forever dispelled these delusions. The entire West has gone solidly against the principles and policy of the Democracy. Of all the States which were alleged to be adherents of the greenback doctrine, not one has sustained it on the polls. Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, and Nebraska—all have repudiated the repudiators and taken positions under the Republican banner. They have spurned the temptation, and sent the tempter into a dishonored retirement. They have declared that the interest and honor of the Republic are one, and that that party is not worthy of trust which to gain power, was willing to destroy the public credit and inflict upon industry the curse of an irredeemable currency.

Six months ago the greenback theory looked formidable. Pendleton and his party dogmatized as though they were a power in the land. The great West was at their back, it was said, and would make sure of victory. Today the theory is exploded; the party and its nominees are defeated and disgraced; and the West stands, compact and earnest, on the side of Grant and national honesty.

The Harvest—Official Report.

The Department of Agriculture has issued reports of the condition of the crops in October, which show that the full promise of the early summer has not been realized in the wheat harvest. The increase in the total quantity, as shown by the October returns, is scarcely more than three per cent., obtained mainly from the Pacific coast. The average from October show a decrease in production in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Texas, the latter having only half a crop.—The other States indicate an increase; in most of those east of the Mississippi very slight, in Minnesota thirteen per cent., Iowa six per cent., Missouri eight per cent., Nebraska thirteen per cent., Kansas twenty-three and California twenty-five per cent. Many places in different parts of the country, especially in Maryland and Wisconsin, report a disappointment in the yield of grain in thrashing. The disappointment, however, is sometimes in other directions.

The oats crop is light in the Eastern, Middle and Southern Atlantic States. There is not a full average in Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa. In the other States the product is about the average, the largest increase being twenty-one per cent. in Nebraska. In Wisconsin the deficiency is nine per cent.

Considerable injury from frost to the corn crop is reported in Northern Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and the more northern latitudes. In some parts of Iowa an estimate of two fifths of soft corn is made. From Southern Indiana, Southern Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania come complaints of immaturity in consequence of wet weather, and few accounts of injury from drought are received. No general or very severe droughts have been reported. The total product will not be what was hoped in the early season, or what is needed for the country, with a rapidly increasing population, but somewhat larger in quantity than last year, which was a season peculiarly adverse to corn production.

The area of cotton is somewhat less than last year. Its culture has been better and the preparation for planting more complete, and labor more regular and reliable. As a general rule early in the season the promise was fine.—Serious losses of late have been incurred, however, principally from depredations of the cotton caterpillar or army worm, which have proved more general and severe in Georgia than elsewhere, very troublesome in portions of Alabama and Mississippi, and somewhat prevalent in the Carolinas and in Arkansas. Heavy rains in Tennessee and the Southwest have caused anxiety, but did less damage than was expected. Returns indicate a smaller crop, possibly by fifteen or twenty per cent., than last year; but a complete estimate will not be made till the crop is gathered.

FRUIT TREES.—When the farmers raise their own fruit trees from the seed (as they will in time if they rightly comprehend their own interest) it is never worth while to graft them in the nursery. Let them grow till you can ascertain what sort of fruit they will naturally produce. The famous Baldwin, or Packer apple was a come-by-chance. Had the original tree been cut off and grafted near the ground, according to the usual proceedings in the nurseries, the public could never have been benefitted by that valuable fruit. Mr. Upham, of Newton, gave us an apple which grew on a tree spontaneously produced on his premises, which has as fine a flavor as any apple we have tasted this season. An experienced nurseryman assures us that the best way to manage with apple seeds intended for sowing is to keep them in the fruit during the winter, and sow them in the spring.—Horticulturist.

Curious Jewish Customs.

MARRYING AND DYING IN THE EAST.

A Boston boy who is with Farragut writes to the Commonwealth of Boston from Smyrna as follows:

When a Jew is married it is customary for him to "keep his wedding," as it is called, for eight days. During that time he keeps an open house, and all the friends, and strangers as well, call to pay their respects to the couple. Dancing and different games are carried on all the time. When we were there they were expecting some friends in to dance. (It was about half-past three in the afternoon.) They said that there had been friends there and dancing going on the previous night, and till eight o'clock in the morning. The same performances are gone through from day to day for a week. Anybody and everybody calls in. Let me describe the place we went into before saying anything about the people. There were two rooms thrown open to the public—the principal ones in the house; the first one contained a divan about four and a half or five feet wide, and one or two chairs; and upon this divan were some men engaged in a game of backgammon. In the other room was a divan about half as wide, running around two sides of it, and upon this was seated the bride and several female visitors. The rooms were all very plainly furnished, and had one or two pictures on the wall The husband was a tall and heavy man with a moustache and beard, and without any of the Jew look about him. He was dressed in common citizen's clothes, and received us in his shirt-sleeves and flowing vest. He requested us, if we felt anyways warm or uncomfortable, to take off our uniform coats. The bride received us very composedly, without a nod or a wink. She was the best-looking lady by far in the room—good looking but not handsome; her features were regular and fresh, but she had high cheek-bones. The Jewish females cannot wear a head-dress till after they are married, so that it is always very easily told who the married females are. The top of her head was covered with a piece of blue silk, and that was bound down by a piece of black silk which went around the back of her head and come up over her forehead, almost covering up her ears. It did not come down on the forehead, but passed just over the top of it. Then there was a small white band around her head, and this was surrounded by a small bead coronet. Her hair was as black as jet and very little of it could be seen. She wore a bombazine dress, cut so as to fit close around the shoulders, but low in the neck, according to the custom of their sect here. Then she wore a zouave jacket, with bloomer pantaloons and a long shirt. This is the same costume as that in which they all dress. It is the custom of the Jewish ladies to paint the ends of their fingers brown during their wedding. This gives a very bad appearance to the hands. They gave us all a glass of cool lemonade, and all the smokers indulged in cigarettes. The host, who was able to speak English, talked freely to us of the Jewish customs.

GOING TO JERUSALEM TO DIE.

It is one of the customs of the Jews, when they get old, to go to Jerusalem to die; for they believe they will go to heaven. So when people get old they get some of their relations to carry them there. These Jews live to a ripe old age, and from what I have heard I should think that it was not uncommon for them to attain the age of one hundred years. One man, who is now fifty-four years old, said that his father died at one hundred and fourteen years of age, and that lately he had carried his mother to Jerusalem to die, who is now ninety-four years old. Last week an old lady one hundred and ten years of age returned to Jerusalem to die.

☞It is said at Washington that General Sherman will take the place of Grant as General in Chief, about the first of January.

A lady in Philadelphia named Mrs Hecht was poisoned last week by atropia, an extract of belladonna. She sent to the apothecary's a prescription for assafetida, but the clerk misconstrued the terms and gave her the deadly poison instead. This shows the importance of having reliable and experienced clerks to prepare compounds.

An American missionary, writing from Harpoot, Asia, says: "Come with me on a tour among the villagers, and see women everywhere, doing the drudgery, even to carrying on their backs huge baskets of manure, to be mixed with straw, made into cakes, and dried for fuel, while 'their husbands do the knitting,' and you will see and feel, as we do, the necessity for using some means of elevating woman to her true place, not as the servant, but as the equal, the 'helpmeet' of man."

Bass in the Juniata at Alexandria.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—It may be of interest to your piscatorial readers (and perhaps to others not piscatorially inclined) to learn that ten black, or lake bass were put in the Juniata, opposite Alexandria, on Saturday night, the 31st ult. Having been in attendance upon the Synod of the Reformed Church at Hagerstown, Md., we concluded to try our luck in the transportation of these excellent fish from the Potomac to the sweet waters of the "Blue Juniata," and succeeded admirably by the co-operation of railroad officials and engineers. It cost us some trouble and a ten dollar bill, but we are sure "the end will justify the means" in this case at least. These bass are considered among the best fish that swim. They are very fruitful, and will no doubt soon stock our beautiful little river. About fourteen years ago a few specimens were brought from western waters, and put in the Potomac at Cumberland by Hon. Frank Thomas and Hon. McKegg of Maryland—down as far as Williamsport at least the river is literally swarming with them. During the last six or eight years they have been caught in large numbers, weighing from one to six pounds. There is no reason why they should not do as well in our river—it is just the kind of water, and has the rocky bed in which they flourish. This is the fourth attempt we made—the other three proving failures. In the first effort we undertook to bring too many of them—sixty were put in a tub of water to keep over night and all died. The second effort failed because it was too late in the season to catch them—they wouldn't bite, and the laws of Maryland prohibit catching them with a net. The third effort would likely have succeeded, but for some wicked boys in Hagerstown, who discovered them in a run, where they were put to keep over night, and stole them. By this time we had learned a little by sad experience, and profited by it on this wise. 1st. We only attempted to transport fourteen, averaging about a pound in weight. 2d. We had them locked up in Hagerstown this time, and got up twice during the night to change the water. If any one else is ambitious to secure a stock for private ponds, (and if we had one we would have them at almost any reasonable cost) or to have a larger supply in our river, we volunteer the following directions: Get orders from the Supt. of the P. C. & C. V. Railroads to allow the fish to be put in the water tank for transportation to the desired point; take the cars for Hagerstown; there take the stage for Williamsport, or Clearspring; secure the services of a few good fishermen to help catch the fish; having caught them, put in a barrel of river, creek or spring water, changing every few hours, and take to Hagerstown; then put in a strong bag net (with a rope attached to draw out) and immerse in water of the engine tank. They are tenacious of life and will live in this for days. September and October are the best months for transportation.

J. W. LOVE.

President and Vice President in Town.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax, Vice President elect, passed through Huntingdon on Friday morning last on the Day Express. A large crowd was collected at the Depot, but Mr. Colfax who was called upon for an address, did not respond. He was in excellent health, but many of our citizens were agreeably disappointed to find him so plain and unassuming—a fit counterpart of his colleague Grant—He was on his way to New York, and thence to Washington, where his presence is required to day, Tuesday, to adjourn the House as Speaker, until December next.

On Saturday morning Ulysses S. Grant, President elect, passed through en route direct for Washington. Many of our citizens were at the train to greet the general, who came out on the platform, and he was kept busy shaking hands until the train started. He was asked to make a speech, but he pleasantly replied that it was no use making speeches after the election was over.

Both the gentlemen bear their honors meekly. Of course we can't expect Seymour and Blair to pass thro' —they have gone up Salt river, which don't lie in Old Huntingdon county.

The New Postage Stamp.

The Postmaster General has just awarded the contract for the supply of stamps to the department for the ensuing four years to the National Bank Note Company of New York. The new stamps will be somewhat smaller than those in use at present, but they are of a superior style and finish, with a novelty in design. The two cent stamp contains an engraving of a post boy on horseback in full speed. The three cent has a locomotive under full head of steam, the great carrier of our domestic service. The five cent stamp contains a head of Washington. The ten cent, the finest of all in design and execution, has a miniature engraving of the declaration of Independence, executed with such delicacy and precision that the picture suffers nothing under a magnifying glass. The twelve cent stamp has an ocean steamship, and the thirty cent has a finely executed engraving of the surrender of Burgoyne. When it is considered that over a million stamps are issued daily, the importance of this contract is at once evident.

Patent Stump and Grubbing Machine.

The above machine, used for taking out stumps and grubbing, was patented by A. McKenney, of Maumee city, Ohio, and has received many complimentary notices from the press, and is universally liked by those who have experimented with it and have it in use. A farmer who uses it once, will wonder how he got along without it. It is simple in its construction, readily used, and does perfect work. The machine can be seen at the Court House, at the Franklin House, and at Cunningham & Carmon's store. Farm and township rights, together with machines, for sale by William H. Piper, Huntingdon, Pa. 2t

An Accident Avoided.

On Saturday afternoon last a part of one of the abutments of the Broad Top Bridge crossing the race at this place gave way and fell in the race, leaving the track supported only on one side. Had a train been on the bridge at the time, some lives might have been lost. The damage was repaired and trains are again passing over the race as usual.

Bass in the Juniata.

We direct attention to the communication in this paper, from Rev. J. W Love, of Alexandria, who has placed ten black or lake bass in the waters of the Juniata. He gives a description of the manner of their transportation from the waters of the Potomac, together with other interesting reading. This move taken by Mr. Love is a good one, and is an example that might be followed with profit. There is no doubt, we think, that such fish as shad, salmon, bass, etc., could live in these waters as well as in any other. We have waited long and patiently for the coming of Commissioner Worrall, but of late we have heard nothing of him anywhere; and now, if we can not depend upon him to secure for us the passage of shad beyond Newport, we think our citizens, or the more enterprising of them at least, should do as Mr. Love has done, and bring the fish into our waters again. They propagate rapidly, and it would not be long until large numbers would be swimming in the waters of the Juniata, and our citizens would be afforded the pleasure of catching and eating "fish as is fish," and at no expense.—We are heartily glad that we have a Mr. Love in our county, and we hope we will have more such as he.

☞From the San Francisco (California) Daily News, of Feb. 4, 1856.

CORRECTION.—Sometime in March last a man named Flynn, was murdered in the town of Campo Seco, Calaveras county, by a desperado known as Wal. Stewart, and a reward of three hundred dollars offered for the arrest of the murderer by the Sheriff of Calaveras. This item appeared in the papers of this city at the time, and was copied from them into the Atlantic papers. Our object in adverting to the matter at this late day is to correct an impression that has found currency in certain quarters that the desperado referred to is a young man named William Wallace Stewart, formerly of Huntingdon county, Pennsylvania, and who came to California in '51, across the Plains, and settled in the neighborhood of Iowa Hill where he is well known as a most respectable and useful citizen. Mr. Stewart is most respectably connected in Pennsylvania, and it is for the purpose of assuring his many old friends and relatives—who have been greatly annoyed by the rumor in question—that he is not the party referred to, that we have penned this paragraph. This contradiction is unnecessary here in California where Mr. Stewart is well known, but it is published in the hope that the Atlantic papers may give it currency and thus repair a wrong that has unwittingly been done a most worthy and estimable young man.

Free Temperance Lecture.

The champion of temperance, THOS. ROBERTS, Esq., of Philadelphia, one of the Grand Lodge Lecturers of the Independent Order of Good Templars of Pennsylvania, will lecture as follows in this the First District of Huntingdon county:

Huntingdon, Court House, Monday evening, November 16;
Mt. Union, Wednesday evening, 18;
Shirleysburg, Thursday " 19;
Mapleton, Friday " 20;
Mill Creek, Saturday " 21.

Mr. Roberts is one of the very ablest and most eloquent lecturers in Penna. and no one, whether friend or foe of the cause he advocates should fail to hear him. The land mourns on account of intemperance and let no one feel that he has no interest in helping to drive the monster from our midst.

B. M. GREENE,
Dist. Dep. 1st Dist. Hunt. Co.

☞NEW YORK, July 1st, 1868.—DEAR SIR:—In your paper of last week you or one of your correspondents say that Dr. Drake is not the originator of the celebrated Plantation Bitters, and that they were manufactured and sold by one Pedro Martelle, an old Spaniard, in the Island of St. Thomas, over forty years ago, as every old sea captain can testify.—Now, sir, I can certify to the above as being true, for I have followed the sea for over forty years, most of the time doing business with the West Indies. These same Bitters differently put up and named, were brought to my notice on my first trip to the Island of St. Croix for a cargo of rum, and for years and years after, my ship's stores were never without them. I always supplied my family and many of my neighbors with them, and can truly say a better Bitters and Tonic, is not made in all the world.

Yours, truly,
1t. Capt. HENRY WENTZ.

Lectures.

The Young Men's Christian Association of this place intend securing the services of one or more lecturers this season if possible. This is a step in the right direction—the Association itself will be benefitted and our citizens also. It is not intended that there will be a course of lectures but whenever it is possible to obtain a lecturer the Association will get one. It is hoped that our citizens will appreciate this move, and encourage the Association in its efforts to supply a want long felt.

True.

Dr. Franklin remarked that a man as often gets two dollars for the one he spends informing his mind, as he does for a dollar laid out in any other way. A man eats a pound of sugar and it is gone, and the pleasure he has enjoyed is ended, but the information he gets from a newspaper is treasured up to be enjoyed anew, and to be used whenever occasion or inclination call for it. A newspaper is not the wisdom of one man or two men; it is the wisdom of the age, and of past ages too. A family without a newspaper is always a year behind the times in general information; besides they can never think much nor find much to talk about. And then there are little ones growing up without any taste for reading. Who then, would be without a newspaper,—and who would read one regularly without paying for it?

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Proclamation by the President---Thursday November 26, the day appointed.

A PROCLAMATION.

In the year which is now drawing to its end the art, the skill and the labor of the people of the United States have been employed with greater diligence and vigor, and on broader fields than ever before, and the fruits of the earth have been gathered into the granary and the storehouse in marvelous abundance, our highways have been lengthened, and new and prolific regions have been occupied. We are permitted to hope that the long protracted political and sectional discussions are at no distant day to give place to returning harmony and fraternal affection throughout the Republic. Many foreign States have entered into liberal agreements with us, while nations which are far off, and which heretofore have been unsocial and exclusive have become our friends. The annual period of rest which we have reached in health and tranquility, and which is crowned with many blessings, is by universal consent a convenient and suitable one for cultivating personal piety and practicing public devotion.

I, therefore, recommend that Thursday, November 26th, be set apart and observed by all the people of the United States as a day of public praise, thanksgiving and prayer to the Almighty Creator and Divine Ruler of the Universe, by whose ever-watchful, merciful and gracious Providence alone, States and nations, no less than families and individuals, men do live and have their being.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 12th day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1868, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-third.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

By the President:
WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

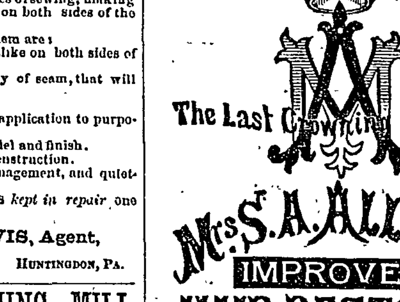

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

PRICE, $1.00 PER BOTTLE.

McGUIRE'S
SPANISH HAIR DRESSER
FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR;

And, rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S
Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S
WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them.

Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to
